2023 Resolutions

by: Patricia Caruso

A new year presents a clean slate to positively affect our well-being and enhance our pet's lives. As the ball drops in Times Square, we welcome 2023 with resolutions. As I wrote my list, Giavanna requested:

- I pledge that my yorkie gets good daily exercise. No excuses! Not just their body, but also their mind; with daily walks, fetch, hide treats/toys and tell them to "Go find".
- Yorkies are known for dental issues. I pledge to keep my yorkie's mouth clean and healthy. Check breath, gums and teeth often. Brush teeth three to five times weekly, with dog toothpaste (NO fluoride).
- I pledge to keep my yorkie safe when traveling. Never allow your dog to stick their head out of the window. A speck of sand, dust or even a bug can cause eye injury, let alone them possibly falling from the car. Pets should always travel with a snug collar with ID, leashed and harnessed. In a pet carrier is safest.
- I pledge to read all ingredients and be aware of harmful additives and cheap ingredients (corn, wheat, soy & by-products), which can trigger disease, illness, and/or obesity.

Welcome 2023

We wish everyone and their furry family members a very happy, healthy and prosperous 2023.

Bruno Does Florida

We just never know where/when we'll meet our next new yorkie friend.

We stopped by a friend's for some holiday cheer and met this handsome fella. Bruno and his family escaped the frozen tundra of Wisconsin for Christmas in south Florida.

Named after musical artist Bruno Mars, this six year old, ten pound ball of fire is a true Yorkshire terrier. Back home he challenges deer that dare to encroach upon his property and delights in offering his mom gifts of worms --- he knows how they gross her out!

Keep your nose to the ground, eyes and ears open, there are new friends to make in 2023!
